

The Award

Many investigators contribute valuable time in their career path of virology and neuroscience research and foster activities and programs that enhance the field of NeuroVirology. The Pan-American Society of NeuroVirology seeks to recognize an individual's achievement for making outstanding contributions in the scientific field of NeuroVirology across the Americas. The PASNV Achievement Award in Science will be presented at the PASNV meeting in Guadalajara, Mexico, April 25, 2008. A commemorative pergamine and a gyratory 50 mm PASNV coin under a modern arch, made both of silver, mounted in a double base of black marmol will be given to the recipient.

Eligibility

The PASNV Achievement Award in Science is open to all regardless gender, nationality or citizenship. Nominees must be living at the time of the nomination. Any individual in the scientific fields of virology and neuroscience that has contributed substantially in the development of areas of NeuroVirology across the Americas is eligible for this achievement in science.
